

Post Graduate Diploma and Masters in Systemic Family Psychotherapy

Prospectus 2022 - 2026

Welcome to the Institute of Family Therapy
Malta

INTRODUCTION TO THE COURSE

We would like to welcome you to the Institute of Family Therapy - Malta. We hope that this prospectus will answer most of your questions and helps you make this important decision in your life and career.

The fundamental aim of the training is to expose trainees to a specialised training in the practice of evidence-based systemic psychotherapy. The training enables professionals from mental health, education, social work, psychology, youth studies, psychiatry, clergy, and related disciplines to build on their existing knowledge and skills and to develop an understanding of the theories informing family therapy and systemic practice, and translate them into effective systemic psychotherapy, thus enriching their role as mental health practitioners with individuals, couples, families, and organisations. An emphasis is placed on preparing students to adapt their practice to fit within a range of cultural, socio-economic and professional settings, both public and private. The training thus draws from a wide range of theoretical paradigms and practice approaches to enable students to meet the demands of working with a wide range of client groups in both adult and child focused settings.

The Masters in Systemic Family Psychotherapy is an advanced course that meets the practitioners' training criteria of the European Family Therapy Association and the International Family Therapy Association. Students can opt to sit for the first two years of the Masters and exit with a Post Graduate Diploma in systemic family psychotherapy. It is only upon completing the four years training that trainee will achieve the award of Masters in Systemic Family Psychotherapy. Only the Masters Award entitles the holder for application for warranting as Psychotherapist with the Psychotherapy Profession Board.

This is a Part Time training course and together, the Post Graduate Diploma and the Masters in Systemic Family Psychotherapy spread over four calendar years and are available for those working within a wide range of mental health, educational, legal, management, and other settings in the social sector. Teaching includes seminars, small group teaching, clinical skills development groups, and personal and professional development groups. Because of the nature of the course, there is ample contact with course staff and opportunities for individual support.

An emphasis is placed on preparing students to adapt their practice to fit within a range of cultural, socio-economic and professional settings, both public and private. The training draws from a wide range of theoretical paradigms and practice approaches to enable students to meet the demands of working with a wide range of client groups in both adult and child focused settings

Because this is a specialised training equipping trainees to engage with vulnerable clients, IFT-Malta reserves the right to pause or stop any trainee from pursuing their training should the continuation of such training be to the detriment of the trainees themselves, other trainees or clients involved.

Course fee for the Diploma is EURO 3,500 per year. Course fee for the Masters is EURO 7900 per year. This price is comprehensive and includes all your tuition, supervision, and library access. There are no other extra fees or hidden costs. Deposit payment is required upon acceptance on the course (see application form for details). Those applying for these programs will be eligible to apply for various government scholarship schemes when launched. Both Diploma and Masters training are included in the Get Qualified Scheme and can benefit from 70% refund after completion. Course payments are to be made in instalments as indicated upon acceptance.

This course is accredited by the Malta Further and Higher Education Authority and carries the Post Graduate Diploma in Systemic Family Psychotherapy (two years) and Masters in Systemic Family Psychotherapy (four years). This Award is issued by the Institute of Family Therapy - Malta and is a recognised Malta Qualifications Framework (MQF) Level 7 training. The MQF levelling is part of the European Qualification Framework (EQF) and thus the qualifications are recognised across Europe. The Institute of Family Therapy- Malta is a licensed Education and training provider (License no: 2001-TC-014) within the National Quality Assurance Framework for Further and Higher Education.

TRAINING AIMS

The Post Graduate Diploma in Systemic Family Psychotherapy has specific training aims which will be:

- Enabling trainees to obtain a broad spectrum of knowledge and understanding of theories informing clinical work with couples, families, and individuals.
- Enabling trainees to develop clinical skills to engage, assess, and intervene effectively with diverse client populations within a multidisciplinary setting.
- Enabling students to critically evaluate research and advanced scholarship in the field of family psychotherapy, and to conduct quality research therein.
- Empowering trainees towards increased self-reflexivity and enhanced relationship between the personal and the professional.
- Enabling students to integrate their learning into their own professional practice and to be able to consider evidence-based practice in developing appropriate and ethical interventions.

The Masters in Systemic Family Psychotherapy programme aims to enable students to continue building on existing knowledge, skills and experience in their respective field and to provide them with the opportunity to develop the competence to practice evidence based systemic family psychotherapy. Specifically, the training aims at:

- Training professionals as systemic psychotherapists.
- Enabling professionals to work systemically with individuals, couples, families and organisations.
- Equipping professionals as teachers of systemic principles and enable them to help other professionals to apply systemic concepts to their particular working context.
- Equipping professionals to become research practitioners.
- Training professionals towards reflexive practice.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

At the end of the Post Graduate Diploma in Family Therapy trainees should be able to demonstrate by active participation, written projects and clinical case presentations that they meet the standard of competence required of a systemic family worker at intermediate level as recommended by the European Family Therapy Association and its code of ethical practice.

Upon completion of the Postgraduate Diploma, trainees shall have acquired the following knowledge and competencies:

- Able to practice systemic skills and techniques within one's working context.
- Knowledge of the different research paradigms
- Acquaint themselves with a variety of research methods and able to apply them
- Well able to evaluate research papers

Upon completion of the Masters, trainees should have acquired:

- An ability to understand and explore the implications of adherence to EFTA's (European Family Therapy Association) Code of Ethics and Practice for both individuals and organisations in particular the implications for a commitment towards anti-discriminatory, culture, race, class, religion, sexual orientation, age, disability, and gender sensitive practice.
- Familiar with the Maltese legislation that regulates the psychotherapy profession
- The capacity to demonstrate an increased awareness of the systemic impact of the wider social context on self and client especially in respect of race, class, religion, culture, gender, sexual orientation, age and disability.

- A basic understanding of the key theories in the Systemic Approach to family, couple, and other relationships problems and the ability to describe differences and similarities between approaches in systemic therapy including their respective theories of change and their specific techniques.
- The knowledge to locate family therapy within a historical context of a developing field as well as to contextualise family therapy within the broad context of therapeutic approaches and their continuous development.
- The knowledge and demonstration of the ability to use a wide spectrum of practice skills required to engage with a wide range of client groups and to work with them effectively using a variety of therapeutic models and therapeutic techniques within the systemic framework.
- The knowledge and demonstration of the application of systemic skills in their current work practice.
- To understand the role of systemic family therapy and other family interventions within a multidisciplinary team and the broader delivery of services to children, adults, couples and families' mental health.
- Knowledge about a range of seminal literature relating to family therapy and systemic practice and an ability to describe a range of systemic models, therapeutic approaches, and techniques, and give examples of their application to practice with different client needs.
- An ability to discuss systemic practice in oral and written form and to communicate clearly and unambiguously with both colleagues and non-colleagues, specialist and non-specialist audiences.
- An ability to describe and critique the concept of the family life cycle perspective and its application to different family forms including knowledge about the key developmental processes occurring within families, couples, individuals and organisations.
- An ability to use theory critically and to critically explore ideas, values, and their applicability to different individuals, couples, families and organisations.
- An ability to reflect on personal processes and their relevance to personal and professional development and clinical practice, as well as being able to account for the personal learning and relational changes trainees themselves undergo over time during the training, including the ability to consider their own personal, family and cultural experiences from a systemic perspective.
- Ability to demonstrate the achievement of an advanced standard of knowledge and its application to research

TIME COMMITMENT

The Masters in Systemic Family Psychotherapy comprises four years of training (two years with PG Dip exit point & two years of Masters) and is based on European standard requirements for systemic family therapy training as set by EFTA (European Family Therapy Association). It meets the legal warranting requisites of the Psychotherapy Profession Board and is accredited by the Malta Further & Higher Education Authority.

The training runs for a total of 3000 hours over four years. 1500 hours over two years for the PG Diploma exit point spread over monthly weekend blocks and 1500 hours of monthly weekend blocks of one day (normally Saturdays), and a weekly 4 hour clinic at IFT-Malta held on a weekday afternoon for the Masters. Additional 10 - 15 hours, approximately, of weekly reading and preparation of assignments are required.

After the successful termination of the four years of Masters training, the holder may register as a psychotherapist with the Warranting Board regulating the profession in Malta.
